Academy Award® winners Sandra Bullock (“The Blind Side”) and George Clooney (“Syriana”) star in “Gravity,” a heart-pounding thriller that pulls you into the infinite and unforgiving realm of deep space. The film was directed by Oscar® nominee Alfonso Cuarón (“Children of Men”).

Bullock plays Dr. Ryan Stone, a brilliant medical engineer on her first shuttle mission, with veteran astronaut Matt Kowalsky (Clooney). But on a seemingly routine spacewalk, disaster strikes. The shuttle is destroyed, leaving Stone and Kowalsky completely alone—tethered to nothing but each other and spiraling out into the blackness.

The deafening silence tells them they have lost any link to Earth...and any chance for rescue. As fear turns to panic, every gulp of air eats away at what little oxygen is left.

But the only way home may be to go further out into the terrifying expanse of space.

“Gravity” was written by Alfonso Cuarón & Jonás Cuarón, and produced by Alfonso Cuarón and David Heyman (the “Harry Potter” films). Chris deFaria, Nikki Penny and Stephen Jones served as executive producers.

The behind-the-scenes team includes multiple Oscar®-nominated director of photography Emmanuel Lubezki (“Children of Men,” “The New World”); production designer Andy Nicholson; editors Alfonso Cuarón and Mark Sanger; and costume designer Jany Temime (the “Harry Potter” films). The visual effects were handled by Oscar®-nominated visual effects supervisor Tim Webber (“The Dark Knight”). The music was composed by Steven Price.

Warner Bros. Pictures presents an Esperanto Filmoj/Heyday Films production, an Alfonso Cuarón film, “Gravity.” Opening beginning October 4, 2013, it will be released in 3D and 2D and IMAX®, and will be distributed worldwide by Warner Bros. Pictures, a Warner Bros.

Entertainment company.

ABOUT THE CAST

SANDRA BULLOCK (Ryan Stone) is an Academy Award[®]-winning actress and one of Hollywood's most popular and sought-after leading ladies. She most recently starred opposite Melissa McCarthy in the smash hit buddy cop comedy "The Heat."

In 2010, she won the Oscar[®] for Best Actress for her portrayal of Leigh Anne Tuohy in the true-life drama "The Blind Side." In addition to her Oscar[®], Golden Globe and SAG[®] Awards, Bullock has received numerous awards and nominations for her acting work, including two Blockbuster Entertainment Awards, four MTV Movie Awards, an American Comedy Award, ten Teen Choice Awards, and four People's Choice Awards for Favorite Female Movie Star. Additionally, in both 2001 and 1996, Bullock was named the ShoWest Female Star of the Year by the National Association of Theatre Owners.

Bullock is also an active supporter of a number of important causes, including the American Red Cross, and New Orleans' Warren Easton Charter School, the oldest public high school in the state of Louisiana, which was badly damaged by Hurricane Katrina.

GEORGE CLOONEY (Matt Kowalski) has garnered numerous honors, including two Academy Awards[®], for his work on both sides of the camera as an actor, writer, director and producer. He has, in fact, been Oscar[®]-nominated in more categories than any person in cinema history: Best Actor, Supporting Actor, Director, Original Screenplay, Adapted Screenplay, and Picture. In addition, he is internationally respected for his global humanitarian efforts on behalf of a number of important causes.

Following "Gravity," Clooney has a number of projects upcoming in 2013. He is a producer on John Wells' "August: Osage County," based on the Tony-winning play by Tracy Letts and featuring an all-star cast, led by Meryl Streep and Julia Roberts. In addition, he directed and stars in "The Monuments Men," about the race to save priceless works of art from the Nazis. He also co-wrote and co-produced the film, in collaboration with Grant Heslov.

In 2012, Clooney won his second Oscar[®], as a producer on the Best Picture winner "Argo," directed by and starring Ben Affleck. Among the film's many awards, "Argo" was also named Best Picture at the Golden Globes, BAFTA Awards, and Critics' Choice Awards.

The year before, he received dual Oscar[®] nominations, one for Best Actor for his role in Alexander Payne's "The Descendants," and another for Best Adapted Screenplay for his work on the political drama "The Ides of March," which he also directed, produced, and starred in with Ryan Gosling. For his performance in "The Descendants," Clooney also won a Golden Globe and several critics groups' awards, and earned BAFTA Award and Screen Actors Guild (SAG) Award[®] nominations, all for Best Actor. Clooney's work behind the camera on "The Ides of March" brought him Golden Globe nominations, for Best Director and Best Screenplay, as well as Producers Guild of America (PGA) and Writers Guild of America (WGA) Award nominations.

In 2006, Clooney won his first Oscar[®], for Best Supporting Actor, for his role in "Syriana" and, that same year, also received Oscar[®] nominations for Best Director and for Best Original Screenplay for "Good Night, And Good Luck." It marked the first time in Academy history that an individual received acting and directing nominations for two different films in the same year.

Clooney's work on "Good Night, and Good Luck." and "Syriana" also brought him numerous other accolades. For the first, he earned Golden Globe, BAFTA Award and Critics' Choice Award nominations, for Best Director and Best Screenplay; nominations for both a Directors Guild of America Award and a WGA Award; an Independent Spirit Award nomination for Best Director; and a Screen Actors Guild (SAG) Award® nomination for Best Ensemble, shared with the cast. The Broadcast Film Critics Association also presented Clooney with its Freedom Award for "Good Night, and Good Luck." In addition, he won a Golden Globe Award and earned BAFTA Award, SAG Award® and Critics' Choice Award nominations for Best Supporting Actor for his role in "Syriana."

Clooney has since earned two more Oscar® nominations in the category of Best Actor: for the title role of the 2007 drama "Michael Clayton," on which he was also an executive producer; and for his performance in Jason Reitman's 2009 hit "Up in the Air." He also received Golden Globe, BAFTA Award and SAG Award® nominations for both films.

Clooney partnered with Grant Heslov to form Smokehouse Pictures, whose inaugural production was the 2008 release "Leatherheads," which Clooney directed, co-wrote and starred in. Under their Smokehouse banner, Clooney also starred in and produced 2009's "The Men Who Stare at Goats," marking Heslov's film directorial debut.

Clooney was previously partnered with Steven Soderbergh in the production company Section Eight, which produced the "Ocean's" trilogy, directed by Soderbergh and starring Clooney as part of an all-star ensemble cast. Section Eight also produced the 2002 film "Confessions of a Dangerous Mind," which marked Clooney's directorial debut, bringing him a Special Achievement in Film Award from the National Board of Review. Other Section Eight films include the aforementioned "Michael Clayton," "Syriana," and "Good Night, and Good Luck.," as well as "The Informant!," "The Good German," "Insomnia," "Far From Heaven," "The Jacket," "Full Frontal," and "Welcome to Collinwood." For Section Eight's television division, Clooney executive produced and directed five episodes of "Unscripted," a reality-based show that debuted on HBO in 2005. He was also an executive producer on HBO's "K Street."

His other film acting credits include the Coen brothers' films "Burn After Reading," "O Brother, Where Art Thou?," for which Clooney won his first Golden Globe Award, and "Intolerable Cruelty"; Soderbergh's "Solaris" and "Out of Sight"; "The Perfect Storm"; "Three Kings"; "The Peacemaker"; "Batman & Robin"; "One Fine Day"; and "From Dusk Till Dawn." He also lent his voice to the title character in Wes Anderson's Oscar®-nominated animated feature "Fantastic Mr. Fox."

On the small screen, Clooney has starred in several television projects but is best known for his five years on “ER.” His portrayal of Dr. Doug Ross on the hit NBC drama series earned him Emmy, Golden Globe and SAG Award® nominations. Additionally, he was an executive producer and star of the Golden Globe winning 2000 live television broadcast of “Fail Safe,” based on the 1962 novel of the same name. More recently, he was Emmy-nominated for his producing work on the 2010 telethon “Hope for Haiti Now.”

ABOUT THE FILMMAKERS

ALFONSO CUARÓN (Director/Screenwriter/Producer/Editor) is a three-time Oscar® nominee, who has written and directed a wide range of acclaimed films.

He made his feature film directorial debut film in 1991 with “Sólo Con Tu Pareja,” a dark comedy starring Daniel Giménez Cacho and Claudia Ramírez, which was the biggest box office hit in Mexico in 1992 and garnered Cuarón an Ariel Award as co-writer. Impressed by Cuarón’s first film effort, Sydney Pollack hired him to direct “Murder, Obliquely,” an episode of the neo-noir “Fallen Angels” series on Showtime. The episode, starring Laura Dern and Alan Rickman, earned Cuarón the 1993 Cable ACE Award for Best Director.

Cuarón made his American feature film debut with the critically acclaimed 1995 motion picture adaptation of the beloved children’s book A Little Princess. The film was nominated for Academy Awards® for Best Cinematography and Art Direction, and won the Los Angeles Film Critics New Generation Award. That was followed in 1998 by “Great Expectations,” a contemporary adaptation of Charles Dickens’ classic novel, which starred Gwyneth Paltrow, Robert De Niro, Anne Bancroft and Ethan Hawke.

Cuarón then returned to Mexico to direct a Spanish-speaking cast in the funny, provocative and controversial road comedy “Y Tu Mamá También,” for which he received an Oscar® nomination for Best Original Screenplay (written with his brother Carlos Cuarón) and BAFTA nominations for Best Foreign Film and Best Original Screenplay. In 2003, he directed “Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban,” the third film in the most successful motion picture franchise of all time, based on the best-selling books by author J.K. Rowling.

Cuarón’s next project, “Children of Men,” which he co-write with Timothy Sexton, was one of the most talked about films of 2006, and was celebrated by critics and film fans for its groundbreaking techniques, including several high-impact tracking shots. The film brought two Oscar® nominations to Cuarón, for Best Adapted Screenplay and Best Editing. It also received a number of other awards and nominations, including a third Oscar® nod for Best Cinematography, and two BAFTA Awards, for Best Cinematography and Best Production Design.

After producing friend Guillermo del Toro's globally acclaimed 2006 film "Pan's Labyrinth," Cuarón formed the independent production company Cha Cha Cha with fellow Mexican-born filmmakers del Toro and director Alejandro González Iñárritu. The company produced Iñárritu's Oscar®- and BAFTA Award-nominated 2010 feature "Biutiful."

DAVID HEYMAN (Producer) is the producer of all eight "Harry Potter" films.

His other feature film producing credits include the comedy "Yes Man," starring Jim Carrey; Francis Lawrence's science fiction thriller "I Am Legend," starring Will Smith; Mark Herman's acclaimed drama "The Boy in the Striped Pyjamas," starring Vera Farmiga and David Thewlis; and the independent drama "Is Anybody There?," directed by John Crowley and starring Michael Caine.

In 2003 Heyman became the first ever British producer to be named ShoWest's Producer of the Year, and in 2011, CineEurope named him Producer of the Decade.

JONÁS CUARÓN (Screenwriter) makes his major feature film writing debut with "Gravity," which also marks his first collaboration with his father, Alfonso Cuarón.

Cuarón previously wrote, directed and produced the independent film "Year of the Nail," on which he also served as cinematographer and editor.
